❖ Read the passage about Avicenna and answer its questions.

Avicenna was a Persian Muslim scientist, doctor, Islamic philosopher and thinker of his time. He is also commonly known as Ibn Sina.

Avicenna was born near Bukhara. He had teachers with a lot of knowledge while he was growing up. By age ١٤ he had learned many subjects and had already memorized the Quran. From the age of ١٤ to ١٨ he taught himself because he could not find a teacher to teach him something he didn't already know. He began to practice and learn about medicine at ١٦. By the age of ١٨ he had become familiar with the most important works of science and at ٢٠ he was known as one of the cleverest people of his time.

Avicenna wrote almost ٤٥٠ papers on many different subjects. In ١٠٣٠, the Ghaznavid attacked Isfahan and some of his work was lost and possibly stolen. Around ٢٤٠ of his papers are left today. He also wrote a book called The Canon of Medicine. This was used as medical text for over ٦٠٠ years. His major work in philosophy was a book called The Book of Healing. He died during an attack on the city of Hamedan.
