I; Reading Comprehension

All countries that send objects into space find themselves face to face with a serious problem'. Space junk. the 'junk' includes parts of rockets, unwanted remaining parts from launches, and dead satellites. There may well be half a million pieces of dangerous waste in orbit. As you might expect, countries around the world are worried. Many are working on solutions to destroy the detritus.

Japan's space agency has built an electromagnetic tether. This giant steel and aluminum net, nearly half a mile wide, would orbit in space and attract metallic pieces as it travels. once full of waste, the net would fall back into the Earth's atmosphere. The gathered pieces would burn upon re-entry. If this net idea works, japan plans to build a much larger one.

A Swiss company proposes a different answer. It is a developing spacecraft that would act as a huge device to collect harmful debris. Like the Japanese net, the Swiss device would fall back into Earth's atmosphere, destroying its contents in the process.
